AMONG THE CANINES.

FINE POULTRY, PIGEONS AND DOGS.

The Richmond Club Makes a Good Show in Every Class of Its Exhibit, The Award Made.

The Richmond Poultry, Pigeon and Kennel Club opened their doors yesterday to the public and exhibited a splendid display of pigeons, poultry and dogs. The club is only two months old, and great credit is due to its officials for its success. The show will be open until the 22d from 9 A. M. to 11 P. M.

On account of sickness in the president's-Mr. R. V. Owens-family the whole management has devolved upon Mr. Joseph Ambrose Thompson. The able secretary, Mr. B. A. Fox, to whom special credit is due for organizing the club, takes charge of the poultry and pigeons, while Mr. d. A. Thompson is responsible for the dogs.

Colonel War. F. Wickham Commander of the First Regiment Cavalry.

The line officers of the First regiment cavalry met at the armory of the Stuart Horse Guards at 2 o'clock yesterday afternoon to elect a colonel in the place of Colonel G. Percy Hawes, who resigned his position on the 5th of October. Brig-adier-General Charles J. Anderson pre-sided. Of the twenty-one line officers in the regiment who were entitled to a vote the regiment who were entitled to a vote the regiment who were entitled to a vote seventeen were present. The algentees were as follows: First Lieutenant E. J. Euker, Troop A. of Richmond, who is laid up by the accident he met with at the Exposition grounds; Se ond Lieutenant H. W. Baker, of Troop C. of Lynchburg: Second Lieutenant Fenton Nolan, of Troop D, of Hanover, and First Lieutenant W. H. Adams, of Troop E, of Prince George, who is laid up by sickness.

As soon as nominations were declared to be in order the former commander.

As soon as nominations were declared to be in order the former commander. Colonel G. Percy Hawes, and Lieutenant-Colonel W. F. Wickham were nominated for the position. Three ballots were then taken, resulting in 9 votes for Wickham and 8 votes for Hawes. A motion to make the election of Lieutenant-Colonel William and the make the election of Lieutenant-Colonel Wiekham unanimous was lost, and the next ballot resulted in 15 votes for Wick-ham and 2 for Hawes. The election for major again brought in some competition, Captain Henry M. Boykin and Captain David Moore, of Company F, of Manchester, being the candidates. Captain Boykin was finally elected with 11 votes, while Captain Moore recognized the balance. There being Moore received the balance. There being cleven votes necessary to an election, it was apparent that Captain Moore's vote had elected Major Boykin.

For the first time the line officers were called upon to elect a junior major. The number of troops of the regiment having been increased to seven, it had become necessary to create the position of junior major to secure a commander for the second squadron. Colonel Wickham had second squadron. Colonel Wickham had recently made application to the commander-in-chief that this position be established, and Governor McKinney had granted the request. There were two candidates for the position, Captain Charles Euker, of Troop A, of Richmond, and Captain T, J, Ingram, of Troop C, of Lynchburg. Stuart Robson's Visit.

Mr. Stuart Robson comes to the Academy of Music for an engagement of two nights and Tuesday matinee, beginning nights and Tuesday matinee, beginning Menday next. A company of players of merit will support him, and there is the prospect of seeing this eminent comedian at his best. As Tony Lumpkin, in Goldsmith's delightful comedy, "She Stoops to Conquer," on Monday night, he will portray the good-natured, if ignorant, young Squire, spoiled by the doting and affectionate mother. I have had the pleasure of seeing Mr. Robson in this part, and he is charming. His conception and playhe is charming. His conception and play ing of the character are ideal. The last season of this actor, when the play was revived, was a series of artistic and financial successes, and demonstrated that there is fame and money in presenting these sterling old plays with due atten-tion to the properties, scenery and cos-tumes, as well as the securing of a careful and competent company to present them.

"Our Bachelors" will be put on at the matinee Tuesday, revived for the first time in twelve years. Not since Mr. W. H. Crane and Mr. Robson played together has it been produced. As Professor Bangle Mr. Robson keeps the house in a roar from the rising of the curtain till its fall. It is a very clear and pleasing comedy.

The Prompt Appearance of the Fire Department Saves the Neighborhood, Whitehurst's Lumber-Yard Suffers.

At 2:25 o'clock this morning a fire alarm sounded from Box 61, on Twelfth street, between Cary and Byrd streets, and it was immediately followed by a second alarm. The flames were discovered in the warehouse of Mr. Alfred R. Eddins, leaf tobacco dealer, corner Eleventh and Byrd streets. Steamer No. 7, of Cary street, was the first to reach the place of the fire, and was soon followed by steamers Nos. 2, 3 and 5. All of them took position near the canal, and within a few seconds directed their streams on the burning building. Other steamers followed in rapid succession, and very soon every available plug in the vicinity was called into requisition. About ten minutes after the second alarm was sounded the three sixes followed, and in rapid succession calls 91, 96 and that for truck No. 3. Within half an hour after the breaking out of the fire
